

State Trooper Saves Suicidal Man On Bridge

To Protect And Serve

Maryland State police trooper Joshua Kim was heading across the Millard E. Tydings Memorial Bridge over the Susquehanna River on August 9th, when he saw a man walking on the other side. The officer turned around to check on him just in time. The man threw a leg over the side of the bridge and was ready to jump. But the officer managed to grab him and pull him back on the bridge.

33 views

Embed: Start at:

Cop stops dramatic suicide attempt on bridge

